

HACK

OBJECTIVE

To think about and monitor your learning progress on a regular basis

1

Think about your learning projects and for which one you would like to use a learning journal and how, at the end of a learning unit, on a daily or weekly basis, etc. Would you like to include and reflect on your skill level, learning goals, your individual learning plan, etc.?

2

Select a tool or medium for your journal which suits your needs best and which you enjoy using.

3

Decide which information such as questions, opinions, events, experience, skills, etc. you would like to include in your learning journal and how.

4

Try using your personal learning journal and modify it to reflect your needs.

EXAMPLE & IDEAS

Wednesday

Business meeting with Peter
 Jigsaw trial class

☺ + Received all expected details
+ Better strategic overview
+ Follow up meeting is planned

☹ - Strategy needs further adjustments/updates
- Business meeting was too short

Now I know what is needed and can do my job better-

Was prepared well
I enjoy learning from others

? Background information about strategy updates
Future collaboration with business unit

! Include THEO and AKANE !

NEXT STEPS

1 - Get Theo und Akane on board and schedule next meeting
2 - Work on and align future collaboration ideas
3 - Reschedule jigsaw trial class

Potential questions you could address in your learning journal:

- What did you learn today?
- How did you prepare for your learning experience?
- What was new and important to you?
- What skill did you gain or improve?
- In what way did your learning mindset change?
- Where did you excel?
- Which questions could not be answered? Are there new ones?
- What would you like to use and apply?
- What would you prefer to forget?
- How would you rate your learning experience?
- What would you like to learn tomorrow?
- From whom would you like to learn?
- What are your learning habits?
- On a scale from 0-5 how motivated are you?
- ...
